A scrutiny, such as the crisis se ed to demand, was forthwith instituted, w led to the developement of facts of the very soon ascertained, in the progress of y name Cotton and Saunders, both of t steam doctors by profession, were promine these individuals were immediately appre ed. A large meeting of the citizens of M on county was held, to deliberate upon the nentous crisis which had arisen, at which was unanimously resolved that a committee investigation should be immediately organi in the name and upon the responsibility of whole body of the citizens, to use all nece means for ferreting out this nefarious plot, bringing the offenders to speedy justice. I nittee, thus organized, composed of thirt of the most respectable citizens of the cou men of elevated standing in the community noral worth, integrity, and discretion, pro ed, as soon as possible, to the task assigned th and discovering that the evidences of a con racy having been formed were perfectly on sive, and that the guilt of Cotton and Sause was placed beyond doubt, with but little d ordered them to a public execution, by hang which took place in the town of Livingston Saturday the fourth day of July. Before Cotton was hung, he made repe onfessions of his guilt, both privately and licly, in presence of an immense multitude furnished a detail of the plan of operation greed on, and a list of the prominent con tors. It seems from Cotton's confession,
